MAUREEN LANGAN is an award-winning standup comic and radio talk show host. Her quick wit and honest rants on life’s absurdities make her a hit at clubs, theaters, and festivals across the U.S, Canada, Europe and South Africa.

Maureen is a MAC Award-winner who has performed on Broadway with Rosie O’Donnell and has opened for Steven Wright, Dennis Miller, Joy Behar, Jordan Sparks and Gladys Knight. She has appeared on Gotham Live, HBO, Red Eye, Comics Unleashed, the Paramount Pictures film Marci X, and in national commercials.

Her solo show, Daughter of a Garbageman, has been called “brilliant” and a “one-woman tour de force.” It was chosen Top Three Solo Shows Bay Area and has been performed to rave reviews in New York, Florida, Nantucket, San Francisco, Berkeley and Edinburgh, Scotland.

Maureen is a seasoned television and radio broadcaster. For seven years, she hosted Hanging with Langan, a three-hour weekly talk show on KGO radio in San Francisco, and she has guest hosted on WABC Radio in New York City and Cumulus stations in Chicago and Atlanta. She was an on-air reporter and anchor for PBS and Bloomberg Television and Radio, where she created and hosted the network’s entertainment programming. Her astute observations and shoot-from-the-hip interviewing style earned her the title of Best Female Commentator by the Newswomen’s Club of New York.

Maureen’s combined skills as a comic and journalist make her unique and a popular contributor on the talk show circuit. Whether on stage, television or radio, MAUREEN LANGAN delivers. Give her a mic and see for yourself.

“Maureen is to comedy what James Brown is to soul.” — Jerry Stiller
